- We care about our customers and take time to listen to their needs and understand their business. We want them to say, "Wow, FCC really cares about my success. They are easy to do business with and I receive tremendous value from dealing with FCC."
- Our customers include producers, input suppliers, equipment manufacturers and dealers, and processors along the agriculture value chain.
- Our portfolio reflects the success of our customers with consecutive growth over the past 19 years to more than $22 billion.

Giving back

- At FCC, we value our customers and employees and we care about the communities where they live and work. We support local projects in every region of Canada. Giving back to these communities allows us to say thank you for all they do.
- As a member of Imagine Canada's Caring Companies, FCC gives one per cent of its profits to charities and not-for-profit organizations. We focus our giving on hunger, rural safety, education about agriculture, volunteerism and community enhancement projects. Giving back is a vital part of who we are.
